When 'We' Is One
In another editorial today we discuss an open meetings measure now before the General Assembly. One legislator feels the open meetings bill should also require that newspaper editorials be signed by the writers. That suits us but it sure seems a waste of time.

Except for those signed by other staff members or guest writers, editorials in this newspaper - as in most - are written by the editor whose name appears in the masthead on the editorial page. Our experience here has been that no one taking exception to something we have written has ever had any trouble learning who wrote the editorial, how to get us on the phone and what to say when we answered.

Tradition always has been that editorials use the first person "We" instead of "I." We are relatively uneducated in formal journalism but have always figured "we" meant the editor and the newspaper. "We" have always used "we" for that reason.

And it has always been some perhaps false comfort to feel that maybe if somebody got real mad about what "we" said, he would hesitate to come in to whip "us" on the chance that "we" is more than one. Which, of course, "we" isn't. - Eugene Price in Goldsboro (N.C.) News-Argus

Asks Rate Hike on U.S. Mortgages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Federal National Mortgage Association says the interest-rate ceiling on government-backed mortgages should be raised if the upward pressure on interest rates continues.

"Unless there is a turnaround in interest rates, an increase in the ceiling is warranted to reduce the discount," association president Oakley Hunter said in an interview. The ceiling is now 7 per cent.

"The administration is watching the situation very carefully on a day-to-day basis," Hunter said. "They don't want to act precipitously or on a temporary movement."

Lenders sell their mortgages to the association, known as Fannie Mae, at a discount in order to get more money for even more lending.

Most of this discount, known as "points" in the housing industry, is usually absorbed by the builder or the seller of the house.

At Fannie Mae's last auction, the discount on mortgages bought by the association was at 92 per cent on 7 per cent Federal Housing Administration mortgages.

The Housing and Urban Development Department is charged with making the decision on the interest-rate ceiling.

The ceiling came down dramatically from a record 8½ per cent early this year as the Federal Reserve Board sharply expanded the money supply and brought down interest rates generally.

Fannie Mae, once a government-sponsored corporation, is now a private operation. Its main function is to serve as the lender of last resort in the home financing field, buying government-backed VA and FHA mortgages from lenders. It, in turn, reinvests the money to try to make a profit.

Hunter said builders are accustomed to absorbing a discount when Fannie Mae buys mortgages at about 96 per cent of the value.

Troopship Returns With Rejected Pows

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
ABOARD U.S. TROOPSHIP UPSHUR (AP) — The U.S. troopship Upshur, with 13 disabled North Vietnamese prisoners of war aboard, returned to Da Nang today after Hanoi announced its agreement to accept the prisoners was off.

The prisoners appeared downcast as they were removed from the Upshur and taken to a prison camp near Da Nang. They had been flown from the Bien Hoa prison camp near Saigon. Officials said they would not return there but would remain at Da Nang.

The Upshur and her escort of 10 gunboats had circled off the coast all morning awaiting instructions. The Upshur never entered the cease-fire area off the demilitarized zone where the transfer was to have taken place.

"We believe we have complied with the Geneva convention and the conditions of the agreement," said a spokesman for the U.S. military. "We deeply regret the other side did not accept this humanitarian offer."

In balking at the last minute, the North Vietnamese governments of blocking the release of most of the 570 disabled POWs Saigon had offered on April 29 to free. A statement distributed in Paris Thursday said the arrangements Hanoi agreed to "are no longer valid."

This week, five weeks after the original offer, the Saigon government announced that only 13 of the prisoners were willing to go home. Repatriation was offered to another 90 disabled prisoners, but they, too, refused. The South Vietnamese government said the refusals were given in interviews with representatives of the International Red Cross. Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam claimed those who refused feared reprisals in the North.

The North Vietnamese said the whole thing was a "dishonest maneuver and an odious act." They demanded the release of all "patriots being held illegally in South Vietnam" and that they be allowed to stay in South Vietnam or go North, whichever they preferred.

Textbook French of Little Value Among Modern Frenchmen

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Anyone who's ever studied a foreign language in school is in for a rude awakening when he tries to use his newfound knowledge abroad.

Try traveling to France, for example. Unless you happen to be in Paris on Bastille Day, there really aren't very many occasions when it comes in handy to know the entire first verse and chorus of the Marseillaise, the French national anthem.

Nobody really uses those complicated past tenses you memorized so carefully when reading 18th century French literature.

And have you ever tried to start a conversation with a stranger by talking about "la plume de ma tante?"

What they don't teach you in school are those little things that pop up in conversation and yet never seem to be included in lengthy lessons on conjugation, vocabulary or idiomatic expressions.

Equipped with six years of high school and college French, I set out in Paris to try to buy some nail polish remover. In the course of my travels I learned the word for finger-nail—"ongle"; purchased several items I really didn't want, but felt I should buy because I'd caused so much trouble; and became an expert at the charade of rubbing at my nail and looking hopeful.

Bowie Knife Exhibit Dedication on Sunday

KELLY BRYANT
Secretary of State

Arkansas R. Dedication Saturday

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Dozens of dignitaries, hundreds of newsmen and thousands of spectators are expected to crowd the Tulsa Port of Catoosa Saturday as President Nixon officially dedicates Oklahoma's newest inland waterway.

The President is to arrive in Tulsa Saturday morning and deliver the dedication speech about noon for the McClellan-Kerr Navigation System, a 440-mile stairway to the sea.

The navigation system, largest project ever undertaken by the Corps of Army Engineers, links Tulsa to the Gulf of Mexico via the Mississippi River. It was announced Thursday that two Cabinet members—Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin and Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans—will fly in with the President to join in the ceremonies.

The presidential party will land at Tulsa International Airport and board helicopters or private cars for the short trip to the Tulsa Port of Catoosa site.

The dedication of contemporary Bowie Knife collection will be held Sunday, June 6, at 11:30 a.m. on the porch of the Old Tavern in Pioneer Washington. George W. Peck, president of Pioneer Washington Restoration Foundation, will be master of ceremonies.

Arkansas Lt. Governor Bob Riley has proclaimed June 6 as James Black and James Bowie Day. Riley will also give the invocation.

Larry Keel, descendant of an Arkansas pioneer family, will sing at the dedication.

Kelly Bryant, Arkansas Secretary of State, will deliver the principal address and also award Arkansas Traveler certificates to B.R. Hughes, Dean of Texarkana College. Hughes will, in turn, present the certificates to the visiting knife makers.

The benediction will be the song, "God Bless America" led by Keel.

Luncheon for the distinguished guests and knife makers will be in the Royston Home at 12:30.

Mrs. Charles Haynes is executive director of the Foundation.

20 DWI State Arrests Over Holiday

Captain Milton Mosier, district commander of the Hope District for the Arkansas State Police, reported today that troopers arrested 20 motorists for D.W.I. over the Memorial weekend.

Mosier said that there were no deaths reported in the Hope District. State-wide there were 7 fatalities during this Memorial weekend. This compares to 7 deaths over the same period a year ago.

Mosier said in a further breakdown of enforcement action over the Memorial weekend in the Hope District there were 105 arrests for speeding; 49 hazardous arrests (other than speeding); 62 non-hazardous arrests; 229 light corrections and 205 warnings. Troopers in the District rendered a total of 264 motorist assists for disabled vehicles.

Counties comprising the Hope District are: Clark, Pike, Howard, Sevier, Little River, Miller, Lafayette, Nevada, and Hempstead.

Star City Marshall Indicted

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP) — A "true bill" charging Star City Marshal Charles Ratliff with voluntary manslaughter in the shooting death of a prisoner was returned Thursday by a Lincoln County Grand Jury.

The prisoner, Carnell Russ, 28, of Monticello, died of a single gunshot wound in the city jail Monday night after he had been charged with driving too fast.

'Frisco Shocks Led Air Found in Big Cities Blamed Upon Auto Exhaust

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A committee of 28 leading San Francisco citizens has recommended that police bear down on violent crime and ignore "discreet acts of prostitution, pornography, homosexuality and gambling."

Police Chief Alfred Nelder said he was "flabbergasted" by the report Thursday. He said it represents a "defeatist attitude."

The committee said it does not "condone or approve any of these activities. But we have to stop cluttering up our criminal justice system with unenforceable laws."

"Instead of being concerned with morality, we should try to turn all our resources toward far more serious crime, including the safety of citizens on the streets," the report said.

The committee was appointed in 1968 by Mayor Joseph Alioto and the board of supervisors, to whom it reports. It is headed by lawyers Moses Lasky and William H. Orrick Jr., and includes a cross-section of professions and minority groups. The work is funded by grants from the U.S. Justice Department and the Ford Foundation.

The report said the scope of prostitution in San Francisco is "fantastic," and flagrant street walkers would be put out of business if "discreet, off-the-street prostitution should cease to be criminal."

Although describing commercial pornography as "the pursuit of dirty money," the committee said dirty movies and stage shows should be permitted "in an off-the-street reticent surrounding," available to adults who seek them out.

Adults also should be permitted to engage in the "discreet" private sale of pornography, the report said, and to place "discreet" advertising that tells "about the availability of sexual materials."

It accused police of racial discrimination in gambling arrests. Of 593 arrests for gambling in 1969, only 14 per cent involved whites, it said. Gambling in private clubs and other "respectable areas of white society" such as church bingo games escapes attention, the report contended.

"There is no such thing as discreet prostitution," Nelder said. "This would be the epitome of hypocrisy. The commodity they are talking about are human beings."

Pornography, Nelder said, "must be watched closely from the standpoint of organized crime" and "does lead to promiscuity and increased rapes."

Warm, Humid Through Saturday

Warm and humid weather is forecast for Arkansas through Saturday.

A chance of isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers is included in the forecast because of afternoon heating and low level moisture.

A weak cool front that accompanied thundershowers activity into the state Wednesday night and Thursday morning, shifted northward Thursday afternoon and dissipated. Showers ended in the state as the front moved out of the Arkansas weather picture.

However, clouds lingered in the state long enough to keep temperatures slightly cooler than expected. Highs Thursday ranged from 81 at Fayetteville to 90 at Jonesboro.

Highs today and Friday were in the mid 80s to low 90s. Lows tonight should be in the mid 60s to low 70s.

Overnight lows include Fayetteville 61, Harrison 64, Jonesboro 68, Pine Bluff 71, Memphis 71, Little Rock 67, Fort Smith 67, Texarkana 71 and El Dorado 69. No measureable precipitation was reported in the state during the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air samples taken seven years apart in three big cities show sharp increases in lead concentrations, according to a report released today by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Scientists have not determined exactly the effect of airborne lead on humans, but an EPA staff scientist said in another report earlier this week it might be the difference between health and disease for some people. He said the main source of the lead is motor vehicle exhausts.

The report said samples taken in 1961-1962 and again in 1968-1969 showed increased lead levels at all but two of the 19 sampling locations in the Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Cincinnati areas.

The report said studies based on blood samples taken from 872 women in the areas were still being analyzed and could not form the basis for any general conclusions.

The study was conducted by the University of Cincinnati for the U.S. Air Pollution Control Office, with additional financial support from the American Petroleum Institute and the International Lead Zinc Research Organization, Inc.

Catholics Set Up Married Order: Deacons

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A new corps of married clergymen, the deacons, soon will be serving extensively in the Roman Catholic Church in this country.

After two years of training, about 50 of them are to be ordained in various dioceses this fall, 30 of them in June. About 400 others are preparing for it. Most are married men.

Their entry into the Church's official ministry marks a dramatic break with its practice of more than a millenia, and sharpens questions about other possible changes ahead for the Catholic clergy.

The report showed lead increases ranging from 33 per cent to 64 per cent at all eight sampling sites in the Los Angeles area.

In the Philadelphia region, increases from 2 to 36 per cent were found at six locations. A slight decrease of eight-hundredths of one per cent was noted at one point.

A decrease of 2.69 per cent was found at one location near Cincinnati, but three other locations in the area showed increases ranging from 13 to 33 per cent.

The earlier report by Dr. Ronald E. Engel of EPA's Air Pollution Control Office referred to the findings, and noted they "did not confirm the association between ambient air lead and blood lead levels."

Jobless Rate Up in May to 6.2%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate moved back up in May to match a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent of the U.S. work force, the government said today.

Jobless rates rose especially for construction workers and sales workers and young women, and the number of long-term unemployed—27 weeks or more—climbed substantially, the Labor Department said.

The national jobless rate was up from 6.1 per cent in April, said the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The actual number of jobless Americans dropped 300,000 to a total of 4.4 million, but because it usually declines more than that in May the bureau figured it as a rise of 130,000 on a seasonal basis.

The bureau also reported that average earnings of some 45 million rank and file workers—more than half the nation's work force—rose two cents an hour to $3.40 and increased $1.41 per week to $125.46.

The average weekly paycheck was up $7.06 for a 6 per cent gain over the past year. A 4.3 per cent rise in living costs over the same period reduced purchasing power $5.39 per week, leaving the average workers with a net gain of $1.67.

High Court Jars Civil Rights Men

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — New districting plans that could affect the voting rights of Southern Negroes do not have to be submitted to Washington for approval when they are formulated by federal judges, the Supreme Court has ruled.

The decision Thursday held district court decrees changing election laws are not within reach of the 1965 Federal Voting Rights Act.

At the same time, the high court indicated it favors single-member districts over multi-member at-large legislative districts "as a general matter."

The ruling came on a plea by civil rights lawyers from Jackson, Miss., to slow down the election for the state legislature while they challenged an apportionment plan ordered by a three-judge federal panel. They were backed by the Justice Department.

The court granted their request, but went dramatically beyond the mechanics of the particular election to declare apportionment decrees by U.S. district courts are beyond the reach of section 5 of the 1965 federal law.

Under past rulings changes in election laws by the legislatures of six Southern states had to be approved either by a special federal court in Washington or by the attorney general. The new ruling exempts changes imposed by federal judges.

The 1965 Voting Rights Act required Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Virginia and South Carolina to run this gauntlet when they alter election laws in ways that could affect blacks. The law imposes the same requirement in 39 counties in North Carolina and single counties in Arizona and Hawaii.

Civil rights lawyers turned to the high court when the three-judge panel in Jackson issued an apportionment plan May 18 for election to the state legislature that makes Hinds County a multimember district with five state senators and 12 state representatives.

The deadline for filing for election was today, but the unsigned ruling postponed it until June 14 and ordered the court in Jackson, barring "insurmountable difficulties," to come up with a single-member district plan for the county.

Single-member districts generally are favored by black voters. When blacks are included in a larger district, their voting strength may be outweighed by whites.

Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter said the decision "puts us in a category with the other states." He said it has been obvious Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has singled out the South for closer scrutiny in reapportionment cases.

Page Two Fitzsimmons Hoffa's Pick as Successor

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Facing the possibility of several more years in prison, James R. Hoffa is retiring after 14 years as president of the Teamsters union, turning over leadership of the world's largest labor union to Frank E. Fitzsimmons.

"I will not be a candidate for office of general president because of my present legal difficulties," Hoffa announced Thursday from his prison cell in Lewisburg, Pa.

He endorsed Fitzsimmons, longtime friend and stand-in and Teamsters general vice president, to succeed him as president of the two-million-member union.

There have been reports Hoffa might win parole from his 13-year jury-tampering and loan-fraud sentences after stepping down from the Teamsters post. He was rejected for parole March 31 and has until June 30 to petition the U.S. Parole Board for a new hearing on the basis of new evidence.

The Justice Department confirmed a meeting Wednesday between Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Publisher William Loeb of the Manchester, N.H., Union-Leader, who has been active in attempts to free Hoffa.

The Justice Department said the possibility of a Hoffa parole after he relinquishes power wasn't discussed. A White House spokesman brushed aside a question Thursday of how the President would look on a Hoffa request for pardon and said any such plea would go before Justice first.

Fitzsimmons, who read to the Teamsters executive board Hoffa's message and endorsement, said he will enter the union's July 4 convention at Miami Beach with backing from all upper-echelon leaders. Throughout his presidency, Hoffa clashed with Congress, federal courts and other labor organizations. In 1967, he went to jail on the jury-tampering and mail-fraud convictions and since has stuffed mattresses at the Lewisburg, Pa., penitentiary.

The same year Hoffa was jailed, the 13.6-million-member AFL-CIO expelled the Teamsters on corruption charges.

Fitzsimmons, 63, has ruled with a more relaxed rein than Hoffa and is reportedly preferred by many union leaders.

However, Don Vestal, president of Local 327 in Nashville and a frequent Hoffa adversary, said the endorsement of Fitzsimmons "is an attempt on the part of Mr. Hoffa and Mr. Fitzsimmons to circumvent the legal proceedings now pending in U.S. District Court and to deprive me of being able to secure the proper voice of the membership."

Vestal, a candidate for the international presidency, has filed suit seeking to bar Hoffa and Fitzsimmons from union offices.

Politics Is Charged in Nixon Move

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's show of concern over the slayings of 100 policemen in the past 11 months has been tainted by political considerations, says a police official left out of a White House conference.

New York Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy, who was not among the 23 police heads or sheriffs who met with Nixon, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover Thursday, greeted his exclusion with "dis-

Will Climb Mountain That Killed 4

By JOE BIGHAM
Associated Press Writer

MADERA, Calif. (AP) — The survivor of a mountain climbing expedition in which four colleagues froze to death says he is determined to scale the peak on which they died.

"I tried to climb Mt. Ritter two times and failed. I think by Labor Day weekend I can make it," Bill Alves said Thursday as he recovered in a Madera hospital.

"It was very unfortunate what happened," Alves said of the snowstorm that trapped the five-man party of Sierra Club climbers from the San Francisco Bay area on 13,157-foot Mt. Ritter Sunday.

A search party found the bodies of Alves' four companions Thursday at the 11,500-foot level of Mt. Ritter, 100 miles northeast of Madera in the Sierra Nevada.

Two bodies were brought out by helicopter, but threatening weather prevented recovery of the other two.

The dead were Glen Welsh, 32, Redwood City; Gordon Howe, 30, Palo Alto; Bob Smith, 25, Santa Clara, and Richard Schroeder, 25, San Jose.

A 27-year-old physicist from San Jose, Alves said the weather was reasonably warm as the group trekked toward the top of Mt. Ritter, but a thunderstorm moved in suddenly as they closed within 200 feet of the summit.

"Wind picked up to 60 or 70 miles an hour and it started snowing," Alves said. "We couldn't see and we started down without knowing the right course."

The bitter cold, he said, froze the eyes of one man and he had to be led.

After spending the night in a snow cave, he said, he awoke to find Welsh and Howe dead, and he said he couldn't find the other two men, apparently because they had been covered by snow.

"The weather looked good, so I decided to get out of there. I stood up and promptly collapsed," Alves said.

He said he crawled to a warm rock where he slept half the day, then began hiking down the mountain.

After walking 22 miles in three days, Alves broke into an unoccupied ranger station Wednesday, ate some canned food, built a fire and slept.

A camper drove by the station Thursday and Alves hitched a ride to the Minarets ranger station. A deputy sheriff was summoned to drive him here.

appointment and dismay."

"We cannot allow political considerations to hinder cooperative efforts to improve the safety of our police officers and the public," said Murphy, whose force has lost seven of the 52 law officers killed since Jan. 1.

The White House said Hoover had drawn up the guest list for the meeting.

Murphy, a Democrat, is a protégé of former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, described by Hoover as a "softie" and "jellyfish."

A Hoover aide said Murphy was not present "because he was in New York personally directing the investigation of the murders of his two men as Mr. Hoover would want to be if it had been FBI agents killed."

It was the May 21 ambush slaying of two New York officers, and the recent deaths of two Washington policemen, that prompted Nixon to call Thursday's meeting.

Also left out of the White House conference was Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Tamm reportedly asserted Hoover vetoed his presence because of personal animosity, but at least seven other IACP officials, including its president, attended.

The gathering itself was described by one Justice Department official as "window dressing." Meetings next Monday and Tuesday at Justice are expected to develop more solid proposals, he indicated.

Mitchell disclosed, however, the administration will back legislation providing federal compensation to survivors of policemen killed in the line of duty. He told newsmen the amount would be $50,000, but gave no details.

Doctors Keep Sharp Eye on Sen. Kennedy's U.S. Health Care Bill

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the spirit of know thy rival, organized medicine is lavishing critical attention on Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's cross-country travels in behalf of his health-care reform plan.

The current issue of the American Medical Association's weekly newspaper devotes three lengthy stories, three pictures, and most of its letters to the sojourn of the Massachusetts Democrat.

According to one of the stories, an AMA team followed Kennedy around the country last month as he held 10 field hearings on "The Health-Care Crisis in America."

The team used "complete tapes of previous hearings, eyewitness reports of the types of questions asked, and press packets" to arm local AMA leaders for their appearances before Kennedy's health subcommittee, the story said.

"This is just one of the many valuable services offered by the AMA staff which so seldom come to the attention of the general membership," Dr. Marvin E. Johnson, president of the Colorado Medical Society, wrote in a letter published in the American Medical News.

Kennedy is principal sponsor of labor-supported legislation to nationalize health care. A competing AMA plan calls for tax credits and direct government subsidies toward purchase of private health insurance plans by all Americans.

The AMA newspaper told its 500,000 readers a major purpose of Kennedy's hearings was political self-promotion.

A front-page news analysis approvingly quotes speculation that "the subcommittee tour was in part a testing of the temperature of political waters for Sen. Kennedy."

"Physicians are skeptical of the senator's motives," said the headline on another story.

"His appearance in Denver seemed more a rest of personal appeal," the story said.

At Los Angeles, the local medical society boycotted the hearings on grounds Kennedy was barnstorming in advance of the 1972 presidential election.

Several of the physicians' letters to the newspaper complained the 89-per-cent increase in congressmen's salaries between 1960 and 1969—from $22,500 a year to $42,500—is never mentioned when politicians talk about the ballooning costs of health care.

But one letter writer, Dr. Chester J. Herman of Bethesda, Md., criticized the newspaper's coverage of Kennedy's hearings for alleged "innuendo, attribution of motives, and mud-slinging."

Herman condemned the AMAM for failing to hold its own hearings on "the current nonsystem of health care in this country."

Agnew to Attend Korea Inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will attend the third-term inauguration of South Korea's President Chung Hee Park July 1.

Agnew's press secretary, Vic Gold, said plans for the trip have not been completed, but confirmed the vice president will represent President Nixon at the inauguration.

The vice president is not now scheduled to visit neighboring Asian countries, but diplomatic sources said Agnew will confer in Seoul with a number of heads of government and dignitaries attending the ceremony.

Among these will be Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, who will meet privately with the vice president.

Agnew also is expected to meet with Kim Jong Pil, the new South Korean prime minister who engineered the 1961 military coup which brought Park to leadership.

American officials who have dealt with Kim in the past were not surprised by his appointment, nor did they praise it. There was a time when Kim was an unpopular figure in Washington as a result of the coup, but much of that unpopularity has lessened with time.

Kim still is regarded as a controversial figure in his own country, but no change is expected in Korean policy toward the United States as a result of his appointment.

historic step," says the Rev. William Philbin, of Washington, D.C., director of the Secretariat of the U.S. Bishops' Committee on the Permanent Diaconate.

It also has stirred new discussion of ordaining women and allowing priests to marry.

The new deacons to be ordained this summer, among 430 men now in training for the role at 13 centers across the country, will be able to carry out many of the functions of the priesthood.

Mills Speaks Against Revenue Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., planned to take another free ride aboard a company-owned jet to Oklahoma today as he renewed his speaking campaign against President Nixon's revenue-sharing plan.

"I see nothing wrong with that," Mills said.

Mills, a powerful chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and author of all major tax bills since World War II, has accepted free flights aboard company-owned airplanes to two other states in the past nine days.

A lobbyist for the nation's largest retail firm, Sears, Roebuck & Co., arranged one of the jet flights, which took Mills and his wife home to Arkansas after the speech.

Mills was scheduled to board a jet owned by Kerr-McGee Corp., in Washington today to fly to Oklahoma City to address the state legislature there. Kerr-McGee is a large oil company founded by the late Democratic Sen. Robert Kerr and based in Oklahoma City.

"People invite me to speak, they arrange transportation," Mills said. "In most cases, I don't even know whose plane it is."

Mills, being pushed, mostly in his home state, as a dark-horse contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, has been stumping the states to speak against the Nixon plan to pass out $5 billion in federal revenue to State and local governments to use as they see fit. The bill, key measure in the revenue-sharing plan, is pending in Mills' committee.

A land development firm in an Arkansas lake resort area outside Mills' district furnished a plane for a special flight Monday to Baton Rouge for a speech to the Louisiana Legislature.

A Sears, Roebuck spokesman confirmed his company carried Mills in a twin-engine jet from Washington to Springfield, Ill., May 26 to talk to the Illinois legislature, then flew him home to Arkansas.

Mills replied that he never accepts speaking fees, but he does expect his hosts to pay his expenses and provide his transportation.

Lobbyist John L. Wheeler, a Sears vice president who was a law school classmate of Mills, invited the chairman to fly with him to Illinois last week. Wheeler said he scheduled a meeting there to coincide with Mills' trip.

The land development firm of John A. Cooper Co. in Bella Vista, Ark., sent a twin-propeller plane on a special flight to pick up Mills at his home Monday, then flew him to Baton Rouge and back. A spokesman said the head of the firm had offered use of the plane to Mills personally.

Advertisement Endorses Mills

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A political advertisement paid for by the DeWitt Chamber of Commerce and signed by 592 residents of Arkansas County, appeared in the Arkansas Gazette today.

The ad said the signers were members of the Arkansas County Wilbur D. Mills for President Club. The ad also requested other Arkansians to form similar clubs in behalf of Mills.

Congressman Mills has been considered a prospect for the Democratic presidential nomination.

NEW YORK (AP) — Barbara Adler, 68, widow of Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler, former vice president and general manager of the New York Times, died Thursday in New York Hospital. Her husband died in 1955.

READING, Pa. (AP) — William C. "Woody" Smith, 56, a retired National Basketball Association official, died Thursday after a short illness. Smith was an NBA referee for 12 years before his retirement in 1967.

All political committees receiving or spending more than $1,000 a year in support of a candidate for federal office would have to file detailed reports of contributions and expenditures.

Other Rules Committee changes would: —Repeal all federal office seekers, rather than just presidential and vice presidential candidates, a requirement that if broadcasters give time to any candidate they must provide equal time for all candidates for the office.

—Prohibit federally regulated industries such as airlines and telephone companies from extending credit for candidates' campaigns without bond or other security.

—Authorize solicitation of campaign contributions from federal employees by political committees or others not connected with the government.

DOES SELF-DENIAL MAKE US GREAT?

A friend wrote his master's thesis on "Self-denial." He attempted to prove (did a pretty good job of it) that repressing your natural instincts leads you to worldly success—i.e., money, acclaim, fame, etc.

His theory is that you have to be a little bit "hungry" or you won't strive and, on this premise, our country was built. Take the early settlers. Their Puritan laws made sex a dirty word. So they made up for their lacks in work, work, work. Take the greatest leaders in history. Few of them were outstanding lovers. They didn't have time for it.

Take the great industrialists and politicians of today. Most of their wives are thoroughly neglected. Conversely, a career wife doesn't usually make a good bed partner. Her mind is on other things.

He went one step further and pointed out that middle and lower class people thoroughly enjoy sex, while the upper classes make a lot of work (and talk) out of it, trying to prove, I guess, that it's really worth the effort.

In other words, he summarized, if you want to make your mark big in this world, you have to give up making it big with the opposite sex. It's necessary to miss out on one thing so you'll strive extraordinarily well in another direction.

Comments, anyone?—

FRIEND

Dear Helen: We-e-e, I could name a few outstanding exceptions.

It's true, however, that hunger in one form or another, is the best prod toward success (in one form or another). Most people can't manage two equally great hungers, and the appetite for money, power, fame, often wins out over love, or even sex.

Pity!—H.

Dear Helen:

This is an open letter to a wife: Dear Wife: They say a man will never leave a woman who feeds him well, provides for the children's needs, and keeps a clean house. You do all these things, so your husband may always stay.

But he'll stray, because he needs much more than this.

And I'll always be there waiting for his knock because I can make him happy, while you only make demands.

So long as you won't wake up and see him as a man who wants something more than a good caretaker, I'll be that terrible

"other woman." I'll probably keep him from having a coronary too, for with me he relaxes, is treated like a king: He can rest for a while.

Please don't wake up, dear wife. I don't want to lose what little I have, for I know I'll never have all of him.—OTHER WOMAN.

Dear Helen:

I came home early from a two-weeks visit with my parents. As I entered the apartment I saw several articles of women's clothing. I went into the bedroom and there sleeping on the bed was a young blonde woman, dressed in pink nylon bra and panties covered with a filmy pink babydoll gown. She was one of the sexiest females I have ever seen. I hollered, and she jumped up. Then I realized: this "sexy blonde" was my husband!

When I got over my hysterics he explained he was a transvestite, had been since he was 12, and he wears women's clothes because he loves women so much. He is not (he says), and has no inclination to be homosexual. He's a wonderful, kind, loving man, and he has suppressed this desire, fetish, whatever it is, for a year. But when I was away, it came back. What can we do about it?—

PUZZLED

Dear Puzzled: If your husband wants to change, behavioral psychology is the answer. Your best help is to suppress any visible shock and keep remembering that your husband is a normal man with a slight deviation. He is NOT homosexual.—H.

Electrical Service Probe

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Don Smith, a member of the state Public Service Commission, said Wednesday the PSC would investigate the lack of electrical service to New Hope, an all-black community in Columbia County.

Smith said the investigation would be made to determine whether the town has been denied electrical service in violation of the extension policy filed by Arkansas Power & Light Co. The town has been attempting to acquire electrical service for 14 years.

Miss Price is a graduate of Greenbrier High School and Draughton Business School.

Mr. Stephens is a graduate of Blevins High School and Henderson College with a Bachelor of Science degree.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's peacock is singing his swan song this summer. The colorful bird will disappear this fall from the nation's television screens somewhat like the cheshire cat in "Alice in Wonderland"—gradually and a victim of obsolescence.

Elimination of the peacock in prime evening time is the beginning of a network effort to cut down the clutter of odds and ends at the beginning and end of programs and in the commercial break.

The peacock was introduced years ago to tell viewers with black and white sets that they were missing the treat of color. Today, virtually all programs are in color and close to half of the 60-million TV homes are equipped to receive it. For some time, the bird has been most useful to hard-up joke writers of Bob Hope and Johnny Carson. What viewers could use now is a tip off when a program is in black-and-white. When those monotone shades turn up, in old "Beverly Hillsbillies" reruns and such, it is easy to believe that the set has gone on the fritz. A picture of a sparrow or blackbird would fill the niche.

NBC also will cut out a lot of those one-sentence spots urging the viewer to tune in some future program, and it will reduce the time occupied by opening and closing program credits. It still will tell who applied the makeup and designed the clothes, however, since it is mandatory in union contracts. But under the new rules, Ed McMahon will no longer be announcing Carson's upcoming guests while our eyes are telling us that Florence Bush styled Miss Dawn's hair and Botany supplied the hero's sports jackets.

These moves will liberate only a minute or so of the welter, but the tiny step is in the right direction. A lot of promotional material and gimmickry has crept into the station breaks. While no more time is given to commercials, more of them are crowded into the breaks. Thus there are piggy-back commercials—two products of the same or related sponsors in one time spot—and, more recently, two 30-second sales pitches where once there was one twice as long.

ABC will inter "A World Apart" at the end of this month after attempting to nurse the soap opera into good health over a couple of seasons. It will be replaced by reruns of "Love, American Style." While prime-time series are given—at the outside—13 weeks to prove themselves in the Nielsen ratings, soap operas have a much longer trial period—it takes time to develop those loyal audiences. Alcindor Goes Islamic

By TOM SEPPY

Associated Press Sports Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Lew Alcindor says he wants to be known from now on by his Islamic name Kareem Abdul Jabbar.

Jabbar, most valuable player in the National Basketball Association last season with the Milwaukee Bucks admits he doesn't know if the public will accept his new name. But he says he will remind anyone who calls him by his given name.

Jabbar made his wishes known during a news conference Thursday at the State Department where it was confirmed that he, teammate Oscar Robertson and Coach Larry Costello will make a 25-day tour of Africa.

He said he took the name in the summer of 1968, after converting from Roman Catholicism to the Islamic faith, and first made it public in a two-part series in Sports Illustrated in 1969.

"This was the first public information about it," he told a news conference Thursday.

"And I have been kind of quiet about it until now."

"But now since I am representing my country, as Kareem Abdul Jabbar, I would like to get that respect from you, from my countrymen, if I can," he said.

Will he ask the Milwaukee Bucks to change his name in their basketball programs?

"Oh I don't know because I have become a public figure as Lew Alcindor and it is going to be difficult but you know, speaking to people and being addressed by people, I intend to remind them."

Jabbar, Robertson and Costello left Washington Thursday night for a tour of Algeria, Senegal, Mali, Nigeria, Tanzania and Somalia where they will conduct coaching clinics, give shooting exhibitions and meet with the players from each of the six countries.

Jabbar took with him his bride of a week, the former Miss Janice Brown of Los Angeles, now known as Habiba, who he married in Washington.

When he was asked where he was married, since no license was issued to him in the District of Columbia or its suburbs, he replied: "If I had been married a Christian or a Jew I would need one, but I was married in a private home under Islamic law."

The 7-foot-3 Jabbar said his Islamic name translated into English means: Kareem, "noble or generous," Abdul, "servant or Allah," and Jabbar, "Powerful."

Weber Is Signed by Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The American Basketball Association announced the signing of Thorpe Weber of Vanderbilt University, the club's third-round draft choice.

The 6-foot-7 Weber was the fifth round selection of the Boston Celtics in the rival National Basketball Association draft.

Pros General Manager Charles Cavagnaro said, "We think in Weber and Johnny Neumann we have the two finest players in the Southeastern Conference last year."

Neumann, a Memphis native and a sophomore superstar at the University of Mississippi, signed with the Pros earlier this year.

Holtzman's No-Hitter Downs Astros

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer Ken Holtzman's strong left arm and some cooperative Cincinnati Astroturf have combined to produce the 1971 baseball season's first no-hitter.

Holtzman, the lanky Chicago left-hander, spun a 1-0 classic at the Reds to highlight the abbreviated Thursday night baseball action. In the only other games played, St. Louis trimmed Pittsburgh 7-1 and Atlanta downed Houston 5-2 in the National League and Boston edged New York 3-2 in American.

But the night belonged to Holtzman, who pitched the second no-hitter of his career, overcoming some early wildness and retiring the last 11 Reds in order. He struck out six, including Tommy Helms and Lee May for the final two outs in the ninth inning. The only Cincinnati runners came on four walks.

The Reds tried everything to get a hit off Holtzman and even went to the extreme of having slugger Johnny Bench lay down a leadoff bunt in the seventh inning. It was, according to Holtzman, his closest call.

"At first, I thought Bench had a hit," the 25-year-old pitcher said. "There was no way I could have thrown Bench out if the ball remained fair."

Holtzman rushed off the mound, across the Astroturf-covered infield and towards the ball.

"When I got over there, I saw the ball was spinning and I knew it would roll foul," the pitcher said. The ball spun off the artificial turn into foul territory and then Bench fled out.

That was the Reds' best chance for a hit. It seemed like such a good idea that Buddy Bradford, who drew two of the four walks off Holtzman, tried bunting in the eighth. But he ran into the ball and was declared out.

Holtzman had control problems in the early innings and got into his toughest jam in the third when Bradford walked and moved up on a wild pitch. He advanced to third on an infield out and then was stranded as Gary Nolan tapped in front of the plate and Hal McRae fled out.

In the top of the third, Holtzman scored the game's only run. He reached on Tony Perez' throwing error, moved up on an infield out and scored on Glenn Beckert's single.

Holtzman also pitched a no-hitter on Aug. 19, 1969 against Atlanta and said after Thursday's classic he felt much the same way he had after his first one—"A little in shock and awfully tired. I let it all out in the last inning."

Holtzman threw a total of 108 pitches and became the first Cub pitcher in history to hurl more than one no-hitter.

Elsewhere, Hank Aaron ripped a two-run pinch double to break a tie in the fourth inning and Atlanta topped Houston as Pat Jarvis halted a personal two-season 11-game losing streak.

Jarvis worked six scoreless innings in relief and Aaron, out because of an ailing knee, delivered his clutch pinch hit in the fourth inning as the Braves battled from behind.

Steve Carlton became the National League's first 10-game winner, pitching St. Louis past Pittsburgh. He also contributed a two-run double to the Cardinals' attack and ex-Pirate Matty Alou ripped his first homer and a pair of singles to drive in three runs for the Cards.

Boston ended its five-game losing streak and moved back into first place in the American League East by edging New York.

Pitcher Ray Culp's ninth inning single drove in the deciding run for the Red Sox, and reliever Bob Bolin stamped out a ninth inning Yankee rally.

Reggie Smith homered for Boston and Thurman Munson connected for New York.

deal by which the Cougars obtained the rights to Jim McDaniels, seven-foot rookie from Western Kentucky.

But Larry Keech, sports writer for the Greensboro Daily News, quoted Peoples as saying in an interview Wednesday, three days after being informed of his selection by Utah, that he would rather retire.

Baylor May Be Lakers' New Coach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There was widespread speculation today that veteran forward Elgin Baylor of the Los Angeles Lakers would be named coach of the National Basketball Association team after Joe Mullaney was fired.

The Lakers, with a lengthy history as a bridesmaid in NBA championship playoffs but never a bride, announced Thursday Mullaney was being "removed" and offered him an executive position.

Mullaney, in a statement released through the club, said he "reluctantly declined" the offer to become an executive vice president as head of scouting. He said he had "tendered my formal resignation to the club."

General manager Fred Schaus said he hoped to name a new coach shortly and the name of Baylor, the often injured 6-foot-5 star, began popping up. The club refused comment.

Baylor has had a series of knee and groin injuries which have stalked him in recent years. Then, last Dec. 2, the 36-year-old former Seattle University All-American underwent surgery for a torn Achilles tendon. He said the University of Washington has contacted him concerning the head coaching post, now vacant there, but Baylor has refused comment on his future plans.

The Lakers were successful under Mullaney, though injuries prevented them this past season of making much headway in the NBA playoffs. The previous year, Mullaney's first in the NBA, Los Angeles extended New York to seven games before losing the title.

"Nothing short of a championship will please Jack Kent Cooke," said one Laker source of the volatile owner of the team. And that's one of the reasons Baylor's name has been mentioned.

If Baylor was chosen, he'd be the first non-college coach named to head the team since it came west from Minneapolis. Schaus, of West Virginia, was the first Los Angeles coach and when he became general manager, Bill van Breda-Kolff of Princeton was chosen to succeed him. Mullaney was the third college d.a.tee of Cooke, coming from Providence.

Post Time for Belmont About 4:35

NEW YORK (AP) — Canonero II was entered today to head up a surprisingly large field of 13 three-year-olds for Saturday's Belmont Stakes in which the invader from Venezuela will try for racing's Triple Crown.

Canonero II and 11 others were entered to bring the field to 13 since J. M. Davis' Royal J D had been entered Thursday.

The two surprises among those entered today were James J. Harris' Adobe Ed and Steve Stavro's Sense A Fear.

Others who will oppose Canonero II, Pedro Baptista's Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner, are William A. Levin's Bold Reason, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Epic Journey, Neil Helman's Good Behaving, Tartan Stable's Highbinder, Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French, Anthony Imebes's Purse Finder, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Langer's Salem, Pastoral Stables' Twist The Axe and Peter Kissel's Pass Catcher.

Good Behaving, a triple stakes winner who missed the Derby and Preakness, and Jim French, will run as a John Campo trained entry. Good Behaving was a supplemental nominee for $5,000.

Thirteen starters will give the 103rd running of the 1½-mile Belmont a gross purse of $162,850 with $97,710 going to the winner.

Post time for the race is about 5:35 p.m., EDT. Television coverage will be from 5-6 p.m. and radio coverage from 5:25-5:45 p.m., both by CBS.

Arias was in high spirits after Canonero II galloped 1½ miles Thursday morning under 135-pound exercise boy Earl Whye, who had all he could do to keep the Kentucky-bred colt in check.

Arias said Canonero II, who races in the name of Edgar Calibet, Baptista's son-in-law, is coming up to the race in good shape.

Babe Ruth League Results

Two games were played Thursday night at Legion Field in the Babe Ruth League.

Anderson-Frazier edged First National 7 to 6 and Blevins won over the Merchants team 15 to 6. Winning pitchers were Mike Butler for Anderson-Frazier and Spears for Blevins.

League Standings:

Betty J. McNeil Letters in Tennis

Magnolia—Betty J. McNeil of Hope was among several Southern State College coeds lettering in tennis for the 1970-71 season, according to Dr. Kathryn Brown, women's tennis team coach.

Miss McNeil was a runner-up in her flight of the SSC Invitation Tournament, in which the SSC Riderettes finished third.

Miss McNeil is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.C. McNeil of Rt. 1, Hope and a 1967 graduate of Spring Hill High School. She received her bachelor of science in education degree at the 1971 spring commencement.

Ferguson Quits Canadiens

MONTREAL (AP) — Rugged John Ferguson of Montreal's Stanley Cup champions has announced his retirement from the National Hockey League wars after eight stormy seasons.

And this time, the 32-year-old left wing means to make it stick.

Ferguson, one of the NHL's most pugnacious performers, said he is quitting because of extensive business interests in Montreal. He gave the same reason when he retired last Oct. 7, four days before the Canadiens' 1970-71 season opener, but changed his mind and returned to the club in mid-November.

Ferguson, a member of five Montreal playoff championship teams, scored 145 goals and had 158 assists in regular-season play. He added 20 goals and 18 assists during playoff competition.

But his highest figures were compiled in the penalty department. He drew 162 minutes in penalties last season for a career total of 1,214 in regular-season play.

Although Ferguson has submitted voluntary retirement papers, Sam Pollock, Montreal general manager, said the player will remain on the Canadiens' 18-man protected list for next Tuesday's intra-league draft.

Australian Tennis Flash on Way Up

PARIS (AP) — Evonne Goolagong of Australia, the brightest new face in world tennis, hopes to move one more step toward her first major championship today.

Miss Goolagong, 19, is making her first start this year in the French Open, rated as the world clay court championship. If she can win it, she would be the first since the late Maureen Connolly of the United States to win everything the first time.

The women's singles semifinals, along with the men's doubles final, are scheduled for today.

Miss Goolagong, seeded No. 3, meets Mrs. Marijke Schaar of Holland, an unorthodox player who hits forehands from either hand.

Mrs. Nancy Richey Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., seeded No. 4, meets Helen Gourlay of Australia.

Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., and Martin Riessen of Evanston, Ill., meet Tom Gorman of Seattle and Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., in the all-American men's doubles final.

The women's singles was thrown open by the defeat of Mrs. Margaret Court last Sunday by Mrs. Gail Changreau, an Australian native now living in France. Mrs. Court had been seeded No. 1 and was out for her second straight women's Grand Slam.

Haney Basketball Coach, Jonesboro

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Jim Haney, former head coach at Salem, has been named head basketball coach at Jonesboro High School.

Haney, a 1964 graduate of Salem High School and a 1968 graduate of Arkansas College, succeeds Charley Eagle, who resigned last month to take a job at Little Rock McClellan.

James G. "Andy" Anderson, a former Jonesboro High School basketball star, has been named assistant under Haney.

69 Tee Off in Lady Barling

BALTIMORE (AP) — Defending champion Shirley Englehorn headed the field of 69 golfers expected to tee off today for the first round of the $25,000 Lady Carling Golf Tournament.

Officials of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour feel anyone who equals Miss Englehorn's 210 of last year could win the 1971 edition of the 54-hole tourney at Pine Ridge Country Club.

Baltimore's Carol Mann, who was runner-up a stroke behind Miss Englehorn last year, said she felt another 211 could win because the course is soft from recent heavy rains, which have made the course longer playing.

Tommy Miller, an assistant pro at Pine Ridge, said "there's no question that scoring should be more difficult this time. Between the heavy rains and lush fairways, the girls won't get any roll on their shots."

Teams headed by professionals Sandra Spuzich, Sharon Miller, Judy Rankin and Betty Stone tied for first place Thursday in the pro-am round of the Lady Carling, with each four some shooting a 15-under-par 5 for the 18-hole best-ball event.

Yacht Cup Challenge by British O.K.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yacht Club announced today it has accepted an America's Cup challenge from the Royal Thames Yacht Club of England for 1974.

Challenges for the prestigious Twelve Meter Class trophy also had been received from the Royal Perth Yacht Club of Western Australia, Yacht Club d'Hyeres, Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, Cercle de la Voile de Paris, Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron and the Societe Nautique de Marseille.

The Royal Thames Yacht Club has agreed to conduct elimination trials off Newport between their yacht and one each from Australia, Canada and France, with the winner to challenge a United States yacht in the Cup match.

Travs' Win Streak Is Broken

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Savannah halted Arkansas' six-game winning streak by defeating the Travelers 6-2 Thursday night.

The Braves got the edge over Arkansas by scoring four runs off four Arkansas errors in the first three innings.

Savannah pounded five Arkansas pitchers for 15 hits.

Ron Schueler got the pitching victory but he had to leave the game in the seventh after being struck in the right elbow by a line drive. Schueler is left-handed.

The Travelers maintained a four-game lead over second-place Memphis in the Central Division of the Dixie Association. Asheville edged Memphis 10-9 Thursday.

In other Dixie action, San Antonio whipped Dallas-Fort Worth 5-2, Columbus edged Shreveport 5-4, Jacksonville downed Birmingham 4-3 in 10 innings, Amarillo defeated Albuquerque 4-2 and Charlotte belted Montgomery 6-2.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Richard Crawford of Little Rock, Ark., had nines of 36 and 39 Thursday for a first-round total of 75 in the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

4 Americans in British Amateur

By THOMAS A. REEDY
CARNOSTIE, Scotland
(AP) — Four Americans, three Britons and an Irishman squared off today in the quarter-finals of the 1971 British Amateur Golf Championship, and the prospect of an all-American final was far from dim.

Even though the British Walker Cup team beat the United States at St. Andrews last week, they were unable to throw up any bigger challenge to this 86-year-old title than their cousins from abroad did in the round of eight which survived from the original field of 256.

Jim Simons, 21, of Butler, Pa., led the assault against Hugh Stuart of Scotland. Tom Kite Jr. of Dallas faced Roddy Carr, 20-year-old son of the ex-champion Joe Carr of Ireland.

In the lower bracket, 24-year-old Steve Melnyk of Jacksonville, Fla., contended with 49-year-old ex-Walker Cupper Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., and Hugh Campbell of Scotland had to deal with Pete Moody of England.

The Carr-Kite match caught the imagination of the knowledgeable Scots, who know the requirements of Carnoustie's rugged 6,828-yard, par-72 seaside links.

Carr, emulating his illustrious father, has shot only sub-par golf all week. For instance, he had six pars and five birdies when he eliminated Alistair Wilson of Scotland 8 and 7 Thursday.

Kite, a cool lad, was so dedicated to golf he said he had no further ambitions other than his college degree in business administration. He has been seven under par for the five matches he played here this week.

In the top bracket, either Simons or Kite will get knocked out, perhaps by each other before the end of the semifinals.

In the lower half either Melnyk or Updegraff could get to the semifinals. A Kite-Melnyk final was the talk of the amateur golf world, concentrated on this historic championship.

Of the remaining eight, four are Walker Cup stars and one—Updegraff—had been one eight years ago. It proved that in a Walker Cup year, the outsider in the British Amateur has little chance.

MONTREAL (AP) — Australians Bruce Crampton and Bruce Devlin—winners of more than $100,000 each last year on the professional golf tour—will play in the 1971 Canadian Open, it was announced Thursday.

They join Arnold Palmer, Doug Sanders, Gary Player and Lee Trevino in the $150,000 annual event scheduled for the nearby Richelieu Valley Golf and Country Club July 1-4.

VANCOUVER (AP) — Quarterback Joe Kapp and halfback Willie Fleming will return to the British Columbia Lions June 27, but only as part of ceremonies marking the unveiling by Coach Eagle Keys of the 1971 edition of the Canadian Football League club.

Kapp and Fleming will attend the intra-squad exhibition game along with other members of the 1964 club, which brought Lions its only Grey Cup victory since joining the league in 1954.

Proceeds from the game will go to the B.C. Hall of Fame.

MODELS are tall, slim, elegant, gorgeous creatures—right? Well, not always. Ordinary types have been in for some years as models the consumer can more easily identify with and now there's a new trend. Many of these models on the roster of a New York agency specializing in not-so-ordinary and even outrageous types currently are earning top advertising dollars.

Going Camping? You're Not Alone

By CARLTON SMITH

There may not be any more room left on the nation's highways this summer. Might be a good idea to drain the crankcase and put the car up on blocks until after Labor Day.

That's the only way we can see it if the statistics offered by the camping industry are within even a long stone's throw of being right. How else do you picture 10.5 million camping families loading up their trailers at least once this year (more statistics) for a camping trip of 1,000 miles, lasting an average eight days?

Plus five to eight other weekend trips to nearby camping sites.

The camping industry also has a statistical family snapshot of these 10.5 million families, we're told by Larry M. Jones, president of the Coleman Company, which is responsible for outfitting large numbers of this horde with their camping equipment.

Mother and dad are between 25 and 35. He's a highly skilled blue- or white-collar type; the family income is $10,000 to $15,000. They have two children, and maybe a dog. This description is said to fit more than 80 percent of the nation's campers. Throw in the 20 per cent of odds and ends, and it adds up to a lot of campers—nearly 50 million, according to the industry—and there may not be room for anybody else, anywhere, this summer.

The main reason for the burgeoning popularity of camping vacations, of course, is that this is possibly the most economical way there is of leaving home for a couple of weeks, outside of moving in with relatives.

Camping authorities point out that expenses can be truly minimal for those who are able to live off the land in some measure—that is, persons adept at hunting, fishing or stealing chickens. The principal expenses, once you've acquired your equipment, are gas and oil and the fees paid for the use of campsites.

At thousands of privately owned campgrounds, fees vary widely, mostly depending on the services and conveniences available—though not always. We've known campers who were saddened by their experience with sites where the quality of accommodations was low but the fees were not.

There are, however, thousands of state and federal parks and recreation areas available to campers. Some are free. When there's an admission charge, it generally runs from $1 to $3 for the family.

One of the biggest camping bargains is the Golden Eagle Passport—a $7 season pass which admits all passengers in a private, non-commercial vehicle to any of the country's federal recreation areas where admission fees are charged. It's issued by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation at Operation Golden Eagle, Box 7763, Washington, D.C. 20044.

For campers, hikers and nature lovers, information about facilities in all our national parks, forests and recreation areas is available, inexpensively, from the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Especially helpful is "Guide to Outdoor Recreation Areas," 40 cents. The booklet, "National Forest Vacations," is 30 cents. For information about our 154 national forests and 19 national grasslands, order "Camping," 20 cents.

Supplement Salary Is Held Legal

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ray Thornton said Wednesday that the $5,000 supplement to the 1969-70 salary of Y. W. Whelchel, state coordinator of public safety, was apparently legal.

Thornton said "it appears" the supplement "was paid solely from federal funds administered by the National Highway Safety Administration, pursuant to specific provisions that a portion of the funds be used for that purpose."

The opinion went to Rep. John E. Miller of Melbourne. The salary of the coordinator of public safety was set at $10,000 by a provision in the office's appropriation act for 1969-71. The provision also said that the "maximum annual salary of the executive head of this agency shall not exceed the authorization as provided in this act."

Whelchel's salary became an issue when the Legislative Joint Budget Committee discovered that Whelchel was being paid $15,000.

Clean Up Jail or Close It, Pulaski Told

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Federal District Judge G. Thomas Eisele said Wednesday that he would have no choice but to close the Pulaski County Jail at Little Rock if it were not brought up to minimum constitutional standards by Sept. 1. Eisele's statement was in an opinion issued in a suit filed by several county jail inmates. The suit charged that confinement in the jail constituted cruel and unusual punishment.

Eisele did not specify what steps must be taken to bring the operation of the jail into compliance. He ordered attorneys for the plaintiffs to submit suggested standards by Monday for his consideration.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Why was the Septuagint so called?
A—The Septuagint is the oldest Greek translation of the Old Testament. Its name means "70," because of the belief that 70 scholars worked on the translation.

Q—Upon how many sources did Michelangelo draw for the scenes depicted in the frescoes painted on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel?
A—Two—the Bible and ancient mythology.

Appear at 1st Baptist

Displaying a youthful flair and enthusiasm, the LeTourneau Singers will appear at First Baptist Church, Hope on June 6, at the evening worship hour, 7:00 p.m. The program to be presented includes a wide variety of sacred music that crosses the barriers of age and varying musical tastes.

Five musicians comprise the group. They are: Nancy Jasper, soprano; Janis Miner, alto; Jim Alban, second tenor; Rick Brockmeyer, bass; Malcolm McClung, pianist. Traveling with the group will be William H. Kiehn.

LeTourneau College, located in Longview, Texas, is a four-year Christian co-educational college of engineering, technology, liberal arts and sciences, missionary and flight programs, founded by Mr. and Mrs. R.G. LeTourneau. Mr. LeTourneau was the famous Christian inventor and builder of the world's largest earth moving machines. The public is invited.

History of Our Greek Heritage
THE ANCIENT GREEKS. By Chester G. Starr. Oxford University Press. $7.95.
Chester G. Starr, professor of history at the University of Michigan, has written one of the most succinct, yet wide-ranging and beautifully illustrated, histories of our Greek heritage to appear in a long time.
"The Ancient Greeks," in only 227 pages including a glossary, manages to cover the main outline of Greek geography, art, history, even philosophy, from prehistory to the conquest of the other states in the peninsula by the much-less civilized Macedonians led by Philip II and his overwhelming son, Alexander the Great.
At the end, Starr even includes some excerpts from a few of the more revealing classics of Greek prose — the historians Thucydides, Xenophon and Plutarch, and the philosopher Plato — plus three final lines from the poet Pindar stressing the radiance and variety of the classic concept of life.
The little book is unquestionably an outline, yet an exceptionally clear one. Naturally, this does not leave any space for the development of original thinking or even interpretation. But here that is not Starr's objective. His purpose is to make available to the nonspecialist the generally agreed facts about the little corner of the world where Western civilization as we treasure it got its start.
Toward the end is the depressing story of the Peloponnesian War in the fifth century B.C. in which the more or less democratic states of Greece — more in the case of Athens and less in that of Sparta — so effectively weakened each other that they made the Macedonian conquest much easier. When the Macedonian grip finally weakened, the conquest by Rome was natural. All this should interest the present-day West, where, ever since World War I, the most advanced states have been periodically knocking each other about.
The pictures, both black and white and in full color, are well chosen and of a quality one normally would expect in a much larger art book.

Drug Use at Prison Denied
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John Haley of Little Rock, chairman of the state Board of Correction, denied allegations Wednesday that drugs had been used indiscriminantly on prison inmates.
The board requested May 15 that a report be made on the drug situation at the prisons, but Haley said the report had not yet been made.
Lynn Wade of Fayetteville, the newest member of the board, said a former inmate of the women's reformatory at Cummins Prison Farm had told him of the use of drugs under circumstances that were questionable.

All One Gives to God

COMES BACK TO THE GIVER

ONLY THE BEGINNING

For all those who truly seek wisdom this is "Only The Beginning" time. It's time for rewards but also time for setting the sails to cope with the high winds ahead. Commencement to serious minds can be little less than frightening. Have these young people learned well to do their duty? Are they qualified to accept prosperity? Are they fortified for adversity? Have they learned about God? If they have not learned these things well, then they have learned but little.

Opportunities are in abundance for those who are determined. Commencement is only the first round on a ladder that reaches to the stars for all who will but apply themselves. Then, young graduates, be of great faith and unlimited perseverance. For He said you have only "to seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you."

Decision on Draft Up to Senate Today

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Amendments to hasten the Nixon administration's goal of an all-volunteer military force, by ending the draft or limiting extension to one year, came up for Senate votes today.

The amendment by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., to stop all draft calls July 1 was given little chance before the vote.

A closer vote was predicted for the proposal by Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., to halve the two-year House-approved draft extension. This could bring a year earlier the White House goal of a volunteer army by mid-1973.

Meanwhile, Senate leaders worked toward an agreement for a June 18 vote on cutting off funds for the Vietnam war. The agreement, reportedly reached Thursday, would delay two weeks any effort to limit debate on the over-all draft-extension bill and its many amendments.

Under the reported time-limit agreement, the Senate would take up next week the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to cut off Indochina war funds after Dec. 31.

Republican sources reported some supporters of the McGovern-Hatfield measure are reluctant to back any debate cutoff before a vote on their amendment.

McGovern-Hatfield lost last year 55 to 39, and backers claim it has at least 40 votes this year—well above the 34 needed to block any debate cutoff. A two-thirds vote is required to choke off a filibuster.

Senate leaders had planned to move for a debate cutoff after the vote on the Schweiker amendment.

If the extension measure isn't passed, draft officials say, they could call some of the millions of men in a deferred status, including college students.

In related developments:

—The Foreign Relations Committee scheduled an afternoon meeting to decide whether to approve the McGovern-Hatfield amendment or any other proposal aimed at ending or limiting U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

—Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Monday is the likely day for a secret Senate session being requested by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., to discuss a staff report on Laos, including reported U.S. financial support of Thai troops.

—Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., said they will seek to impose a $66-billion spending limit on the Pentagon for the year that begins July 1. An effort to put a $66-billion ceiling on this year's spending failed, 42 to 31.

Oak Post Now Grows in Reverse

W. W. McGee, 711 East 6th Street, is shown examining new branches on a Post Oak post in his yard. Four posts were cut in early January, sharpened and driven into the soil in late January to support a trellis. Three of the four posts have sprouted and are growing.

The unusual thing about the growth from the posts is (1) The posts were driven into the soil with the large end up and (2) The branches are staying green much longer than is normal.

According to Robert Vandivere, Associate County Extension Agent, it is quite common for posts to put out branches, but they usually die much sooner than these. The new growth probably will die within the next month.

Vietnam's Losses Heavy in Cambodia

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) —

High-ranking South Vietnamese field commanders today acknowledged heavy losses at the Cambodian town of Suoi and said they have switched to mobile tactics in cross-border operations.

One reason cited by a South Vietnamese general is the loss of backup U.S. ground forces. He indicated the South Vietnamese would continue to rely heavily on full U.S. air support for some time to come.

The South Vietnamese officers briefed newsmen on Cambodian operations but specified that their names could not be disclosed.

They said Saigon's Task Force 8, which retreated from Suoi last Monday, suffered 300 killed, wounded or missing, but some of its 74 missing have begun straggling back across the border. The force is no longer effective for combat, and it will take about a month to rebuild it, one general said.

Two other task forces numbering about 3,000 men have been diverted from another operation in Cambodia 60 miles away to protect the border south of Suoi and 80 miles north of Saigon.

One South Vietnamese general said he would not promise to destroy the three enemy divisions in that part of eastern Cambodia or their bases, but he would "reduce their potential and try to do the best to cut off their infiltration into South Vietnam."

Field commanders said the withdrawal in the past year of two U.S. divisions from the 3rd Military region, the 11 provinces around Saigon, had forced the South Vietnamese troops to provide their own highway security on the Vietnamese side of the border for their supply lines into Cambodia.

"This mission of 10 men is now reduced to five," said a South Vietnamese general. "I feel some difficulties."

While conceding serious losses at Suoi, the general claimed South Vietnamese troops and U.S. aircraft wiped out more than 1,000 enemy troops, the equivalent of a regiment. He said four North Vietnamese regiments had moved on Suoi and would have annihilated Task Force 8 if it had not pulled back.

Field commanders reported, meanwhile, that 63 Khmer Rouge, the Communist-led Cambodian troops, surrendered at a South Vietnamese base near the Cambodian town of Krok and handed over 46 weapons.

In other developments: The South Vietnamese claimed that 130 North Vietnamese were killed by South Vietnamese ground forces and allied air strikes around Fire Base 5, a mountain outpost near the juncture of the borders of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos. Eight South Vietnamese troops were killed and 10 wounded, headquarters said.

The North Vietnamese failed to show up today for the rendezvous at sea off the demilitarized zone to accept 13 disabled war prisoners. The Communists had agreed to accept 570 prisoners offered by the South Vietnamese, but then Saigon said only the 13 wanted to go home. Hanoi said Saigon's offer was a "sham" and its agreement to accept the prisoners was off.

The American troopship Upshur carried the POWs to the rendezvous area but after circling all morning turned back to Da Nang.

The Cambodian Command in Phnom Penh said three North Vietnamese-Viet Cong regiments appear to have pulled back to regroup after a week of heavy fighting in the marshes east of Phnom Penh.

May Oppose Rep. Hammerschmidt

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Wednesday that he had not discussed with Bradley D. Jenson of Fort Smith the possibility of Jenson running next year against Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark. Jenson, who was Bumpers' legislative coordinator in this year's session of the General Assembly, has expressed interest in seeking the Democratic nomination for Hammerschmidt's seat.

Angry Doctor Writes Book on Medicine, and It's a Best-Seller

By BILL STOCKTON
Associated Press Writer
ALHAMBRA, Calif. (AP) —

One night 18 months ago Dr. Alex Gerber was telling his wife how shocked he was at what he deemed harmful and unethical practices among some California surgeons.

"These things had just overwhelmed me," he recalls. "It was just the needless loss of life which completely could have been prevented if doctors had practiced ethically and within bounds."

"My wife said, 'Why the hell do you keep talking about these things. Why don't you do something about them?' So I sat down that night and wrote down the outline for a book."

The result, the best-selling "The Gerber Report," now a month old.

Gerber, a surgeon with impeccable credentials, severely criticizes general practitioners who legally can perform any surgery but who actually are qualified only for the simplest operations; he objects to excessive tonsilectomies and appendectomies; and criticizes GPs for attempting surgery in specialized areas such as the stomach, thyroid and cancer of the breast—"beyond their competency."

Having medical societies police doctors, he says, is like having a union investigate a union—"The name of the game is whitewash." And he takes militant young doctors and medical students to task for urging radical change in medical education, saying U.S. medical schools are the finest in the world.

The welfare patient in a public hospital often receives better medical care than well-to-do patients in private hospitals, he says. Too many people place too much emphasis on a television set in the room, and other amenities, paying no attention to the qualifications of medical personnel handling the case, he says. He strongly favors birth control, including legal abortions.

"What I'm trying to do is eliminate the bad medical practices, the unnecessary surgery, surgery by the untrained and unqualified," he told an interviewer. "I hope we can arouse the public to the inequities and abuses in medicine so that the decision makers in government will do something about it."

His book has already begun to make waves, at least among doctors, Gerber said.

"Those doctors who are practicing medicine as they should, who are not doing things beyond their competency, are very pleased about the book."

Pornographic Cassette to Permit Playback on Home Television

By OLE DUUS

COPENHAGEN (AP) —

Something new is being developed for the pornography buff: sex movies on cassettes to be run off through the home television set.

It won't be long before Americans and Europeans can receive pornographic video cassettes in unmarked packages from Denmark, an exhibitor at the latest sex and pornography fair said Thursday.

The exhibitor, a big producer of blue movies, said he is ready to make and market such TV cassettes as soon as international standardization problems are solved to make sure his pornographic software will fit machines made abroad.

He demonstrated to fair-goers what it will be like to watch Danish porno on the home cassette tube. But the producer may run into trouble if he tries to mail his product out of the country. After numerous complaints from West Germany, Italy, France, Britain and the United States, the Danish Justice Ministry has taken a mail-order exporter of other pornographic materials to court in a test case.

This didn't worry the fair exhibitors, since they admit the bulk of porno exports is smuggled in on cassettes.

To the seasoned Danish observer there was little new at the fair since the world's first porno fair in 1969, shortly after Denmark lifted the last remaining restrictions on pornography for adults.

Autopsy Is Ordered at Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — An autopsy was performed Wednesday on a Texarkana, Ark., man after Oklahoma authorities obtained a court order to exhume the body.

The order was obtained after Tulsa officials said the death of Louis Edward Jones, 46, occurred in a "sudden and suspicious manner."

Jones died Sunday morning in a Tulsa hospital after being found in a motel in Tulsa. It was first believed that Jones died of a heart attack.

Jones was buried Monday in Texarkana. Results of the autopsy are not expected for more than a week.

Rogers Asks French Help on Troop Cut

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
LISBON (AP) —

Secretary of State William P. Rogers pressed France today to join the other NATO allies in preparations for troop cut negotiations with the Soviet Union.

France's Maurice Schumann appeared to be the only holdout at the semiannual meeting of the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, ending today. But even if Schumann balked, it seemed likely that a way would be found to line up the other 13 allies behind the United States.

Rogers wants a period of exploration to see what Leonid Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party leader, is ready to do. He hopes to find out by diplomatic probing what forces and weapons Brezhnev will put on the line and how the talks could be organized.

Meanwhile the Atlantic allies would be working out what they are willing to offer. They would meet again in the early fall to lay down a bargaining position and decide who should represent the alliance. Then, if the Soviets were willing, the negotiations could start.

France, however, objects to this procedure. Schumann would rather see a general conference on European security, with no blocs involved and each country speaking for itself.

But such a general conference is a considerable way off. Schumann has agreed that planning for it cannot start until the Soviets agree on the future of Berlin. That agreement is expected to take at least until December, and meanwhile, many of the allies are eager to move ahead into talks on troops cuts, so eager that Rogers warned them Thursday against becoming "frenetic."

The foreign ministers in their final communique today were expected to point out that they took the initiative three years ago of offering the Soviets talks on troop cuts, and that Brezhnev's offer May 14 to negotiate was a belated reply.

The ministers were also agreed that settlement of the Berlin problem must precede the general security conference the Russians want.

A sharp family squabble erupted at Thursday's session when Norwegian Foreign Minister Andreas Cappelen, a Socialist, attacked the authoritarian governments of Portugal and Greece. He was supported by Denmark and Canada.

The Portuguese and Greek representatives replied sharply. Manlio Brosio, NATO's secretary-general, intervened to criticize the Norwegian for attacking the Portuguese representative in his own capital.

Brosio's retirement was to be announced today. Dutch Foreign Minister Joseph Luns is to succeed him in the fall.
